

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the Times."

Gen. Lorenzo Thomas, Adjutant General of the U. S. Army, was yesterday ordered by the President to resume the duties of Adjutant General of the army. Gen. Townsend has been for some years exercising the functions of this office. The President yesterday directed Gen. Grant to assign Gen. Sherman to the command of a new department, headquarters in Washington, to be called the Department of the Atlantic, and includes the departments of Washington, the East and the Lakes. The order has not yet been promulgated. The reader has probably observed in the list of "rejections" by the Senate the name of Gen. Leslie Combs, who was nominated by the President to be marshal of the U. S. for the district of Kentucky. Gen. Combs is seventy-five years of age, the life-long friend and companion of Henry Clay, and one of the most able and eloquent defenders of the Union in the State of Kentucky.

The statement recently telegraphed from Washington that Secretary McCulloch would shortly throw a lot of gold upon the market, was without any foundation, as the Secretary has no idea of disposing of any gold in the vaults of the Treasury which now amounts to $102,000,000. There is a sufficient supply of currency to meet all demands and it is the desire of the Secretary to keep a large amount on hand in order to have a proper check upon gold speculators.

A few days ago the water from Ottawa lake, in Monroe county, Michigan, all at once disappeared. The Coldwater Gazette states that the water had begun to subside for some days, and the teamsters who carried stone from the lake noticed that the holes at which they watered their cattle were crowded with fish; and immense quantities were found at the bottom of the lake after the water had run out.

Sergeant Bates, the great pedestrian and bearer of the U. S. flag from Vicksburg to Washington, was publicly received on the 12th, at Selma, Ala., by a crowded house. Speeches were made by ex-Governor Parsons, ex-Gov. Moore, Hon. Alex. White, and Judge W. W. Brooks. Many were present, and resolutions were passed expressive of allegiance to the Constitution.

A dispatch from Washington states that the different railroad companies that have placed postoffice cars on their lines have made application to the Congressional Committee on Postoffices for additional compensation, stating that unless it be allowed they will have to take the cars off, on account of the expense of running them.

As Tuesday's night express train on the Hudson river railroad was passing through the Highlands, an avalanche which had been detached from a cliff overhead, descended upon two of the passenger cars, crushing roofs and causing panic among the passengers, two of whom were seriously injured.

The arrival of Dickens has demoralized the Bostonians. A "divine" of that city recently appeared before his people at an evening entertainment, to read one of his peculiar productions, behind a little crimson-covered stand with a rose stuck in his buttonhole!

The new revolution in Hayti is extending, and the revolutionists were, at last, advancing on Cape Haytien. Three hundred of Salnave's followers had been captured and some of them shot. It was generally believed that Salnave would be overthrown.

A message was received by the House from the President yesterday, announcing that the deficiency appropriation bill had become a law without his signature. It appropriates about one and one-half millions deficiency; mainly for reconstruction purposes.

Admiral Eagle died at Philadelphia on Wednesday, in the 69th year of his age. At the commencement of the war he brought home from China the steamer Hartford.

The New York Radical Convention, the other day, pitched Mr. Chase overboard, and hoisted the name of Gen. Grant. Mr. Greeley died, and made no sign!

The National Commercial Convention, held at Boston last week, concluded its deliberations on Saturday. The four or five hundred delegates represented all sections of the country.

The President has nominated Gen. Sherman as General of the Army, by brevet. This will give him the same rank by brevet as General Grant holds by regular promotion.

The U. S. bonds of 1847, which matured December 31, will be paid on demand at the Treasury, Washington, or at New York, with interest to 1st of January.

A destructive fire occurred at Wilmington, N. C., yesterday.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The Staunton Spectator says: "It will be remembered that the President of the Conservative State Convention (Mr. A. H. H. Stuart) appointed Mr. Wm. C. Rives, chairman of the committee to prepare an address. As Mr. Rives's health is such as to disqualify him for performing the duty thus imposed, Mr. Wm. H. Macfarland, of Richmond, has been appointed in his stead."

The Richmond Whig thinks that grape raising and wine manufacture will become at no distant day "a leading interest" in Virginia. It says hundreds of individuals are turning their attention to the matter.

The Richmond and Fredericksburg railroad has materially reduced its rates of tolls on many of the principal articles of freight—the reduction to take effect on the 1st of March next.

Gen. Schofield has addressed a note to the State Tobacco Inspectors of Virginia requiring them to take the oath prescribed by Congress.

The oyster tax was discussed all day in the Convention, yesterday.

NEW RAILROAD BETWEEN WASHINGTON AND NEW YORK.—A dispatch from Washington says: "The House committee on roads and canals have before them the new air-line railroad bill from Washington to New York. President Marley, of the Camden and Amboy road; President Hinkley, of Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore road, and the counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio road have appeared before the committee and argued the impracticability and unprofitableness of the proposed legislation, as well as its doubtful constitutionality. The result will probably be the same as at previous sessions when the subject has been up, namely, the defeat of the measure."

REGISTRATION.—Mr John C. Clarke, commissioner of Revenue, has been appointed by General Schofield, President of the Board of Registration for this county, in addition to his duty as Registering Officer for the 5th Magisterial District of the county, and ordered to report for duty to Brevet Lieut. Col. S. P. Lee.

Mr. Ingersoll, in the House of Representatives, when there was a debate on economy, and retrenchment, the other day, remarked to his conferees, "that when they had set the example of reducing their own pay, it would be time enough to talk of reducing the pay of clerks and employees, and not before."

Impeachment Quashed Again.

The Reconstruction Committee held a brief session yesterday, all the members being present. Thaddeus Stevens stated that he wanted to bring the subject of impeachment to the test in the committee. He believed the investigation had gone far enough, and the time had come when some tangible action should be taken. He had prepared, he said, the following report to the House, and he would now take the sentiments of the members of the committee thereon:

The Committee on Reconstruction, to whom was referred the correspondence of Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, and U. S. Grant, General Commanding the Armies of the United States, having considered the same and the evidence, do report that, in virtue of the powers with which your committee have been invested, they have carefully examined the evidence before them, and are of opinion that Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, is guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, and therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors.

Resolved, That the committee go to the Senate, and at the bar thereof, in the name of the House of Representatives and of all the people of the U. S., do impeach Andrew Johnson, President of the U. S., of high crimes and misdemeanors, and acquittal the Senate that the House of Representatives will in due time exhibit particular articles of impeachment against him, and make good the same.

Resolved, That said committee do demand that the Senate take order for the appearance of said Andrew Johnson to answer to said impeachment.

As soon as the reading of the resolutions was finished, Judge Bingham moved to lay the report and the whole subject of impeachment on the table. Mr. Stevens said he wanted the yeas and nays recorded on that motion, so that the country might know who was and who was not in favor of taking cognizance of the high crimes and misdemeanors committed by the President. The vote was then taken and stood: Yeas—Messrs. Bingham, Beaman, Paine, Hubbard, Brooks and Beck. Nays—Messrs. Stevens, Boutwell and Farnsworth. So the entire matter was laid on the table, and the committee adjourned.

Congress.

In the Senate, yesterday, the discussion of the case of Hon. P. F. Thomas, Senator elect from Maryland, was resumed. Mr. Sumner submitted a substitute for the pending resolution, declaring that Mr. Thomas in permitting his minor son to serve as a "Rebel" soldier, and furnishing him with means to carry out that purpose, had been guilty of misprision of treason, as defined by existing laws, and could not be permitted to take the oath of office required of a U. S. Senator! Mr. Sumner spoke at length in favor of his substitute. Mr. Trumbull followed, arguing in favor of Mr. Thomas' admission. Mr. Fessenden, by an inquiry, indicated that he concurred with Mr. Trumbull. Senators Edmunds, Ferry, Drake, Corbett, Yates and Sherman all spoke against Mr. Thomas' admission. Without concluding the discussion the Senate adjourned.

In the House of Representatives yesterday, the bill for the protection of the rights of American citizens whilst abroad was recommitted to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. It is understood that it will be reported back on Monday, and pressed to a vote. The resolution of the Committee on Elections, declaring John Young Brown not entitled to a seat as Representative from Kentucky, on account of disloyalty during the late war, was passed by a vote of yeas 108, nays 43.

Foreign News.

Our advices by the cable are to yesterday. The riotous disturbances at Cork, Ireland, were renewed yesterday, and several assaults were made on the police. The authorities are taking effective measures to stop these disorders.

The Portuguese Government has authorized certain responsible parties to construct a telegraphic cable across the Atlantic, to be run from Falmouth, England, to Oporto, thence to the Azores, and from those islands to the coast of the United States.

At Dublin, the Fenian Lannon has been acquitted of the charge of murdering the policeman Kelly.

Loss of the Revenue Cutter Nikeema.—The steam revenue cutter Nikeema, Captain Thos. Sands, while cruising in the bay on Friday morning the 7th inst., and when off Darnley's marshes, at the mouth of the Wisconsin river, about five miles from land, was discovered to be on fire in the galley. The flames in a short while communicated to the bulkhead in the engine room, and drove the engineers and firemen to the deck before they could get to the engine to stop it.

The light jointer work burned like paper, and the flames spread with great rapidity. There was about a ton of powder, and fire hundred loaded shells in the magazine, and as the fire was rapidly approaching that point, it was deemed prudent to abandon the vessel; orders were then given to lower the boats, which was done immediately. The steamer meanwhile, was heading to the western land, and was going at the rate of seven knots; as the dingy was lowered, the master at arms, Mr. Shroeder, of Norfolk, and Mr. Grinnell, of New Point, jumped in her, and she was dragged under the propeller and cut to pieces, both men being drowned.

Soon after this the condenser became heated and the engine stopped; about this time the other boats were lowered, all hands embarked, and they headed for the land. After pulling a short distance, the magazine of the cutter took fire, a terrible explosion followed; portions of the vessel were sent high in the air, and the next minute all that could be seen of her was the charred fragments that floated around.

The boats, containing thirty men, then made their way in a heavy gale and rough sea, to the shore; and the crew landed near the mouth of the Wisconsin river, and were kindly received and hospitably entertained by Mr. Harding, who resides there.—Norfolk Daily Book.

THE FIELD INVESTIGATION.—The Judiciary Committee have postponed action in the case of the witness who refused to give the name of the writer of the article which led to the investigation until to-morrow. The matter is exciting considerable attention among newspaper men, and those on the floor connected with journalism.

It is understood that the leading correspondents here have agreed to stand by each other in refusing to reveal the sources of information in important news, and also that when the question comes up on the floor several members will consent that to compel members of the press to violate the confidence in which it is always understood here that they receive their news, would often render it extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the press of the country to get access to information of value to the country.—Washington Express.

"Horse Food"

[Correspondence of the Turf, Field, and Farm.] When I was a little boy—a somewhat mythical period I fear—I used to read in my spelling book that "the horse is a noble animal, and very useful to man." In my maturer years I cordially re-echo the sentiment. "The horse is a noble animal, and very useful to man"—provided you back the right one, and don't hedge your money. But much as I venerate this "noble animal," I decidedly prefer, for edible purposes, plebeian beef and mutton, with occasional interludes, say, of turtle, venison, pate foie gras, &c.; and holding this view I shall not assist at the grand "hippophagic banquet," which is to be held at the Langham Hotel on the 1st of next month. On that festive occasion it is announced that one hundred and fifty guests are to sit down to an elaborate cuisine of "horses"—pure of horse—conduite de cheval au naturel, saddle of horses, (with horse radish sauce); salad dressed with "horse oil," (fact—Buh! the harshness of the idea!) and winding up, I suppose, with "horses" chesnuts by way of dessert. Well, de gustibus non est disputandum. I may have partaken of the noble animal in my time—I dare say I have—for I once dined at a cheap Parisian restaurant, but I don't do it again if I know it—no, not even "in the cause of science." Give me rather good, honest cannibalism. If hippophagy is to come into fashion we shall soon be reduced to the state of things depicted by Chas. Matthews:

"If horse flesh won't suffice to feed the masses, The next resource will certainly be asses— And heaven only knows where that will end— Some people won't have left a single friend!"

Speaking of asses, I see that the Cork police officials have been guilty of the absurdity of arresting Mr. George Francis Train, on a charge of Penitence.

"A Coon Hunt."

In a recent hunt near Philipsburg—the place was never so widely known before—the tree was felled in which the coon had taken refuge from his pursuers, when a coach dog, belonging to a young man named Skyles, seized the shiny coated animal. The fight proceeded in fierce style, the coon biting with desperate effort, much to the pain of the dog, and must we write it, the loss of his courage. Discovering that the dog was more brave when snarling at timid folks under a coach, than in a life and death combat, a man named Miner Walker attempted to make a diversion in favor of the canine, hoping thereby to save him from the stigma attached to a coward. Walker was excited, and striking promiscuously with a heavy club, he inaugurated an unlooked for tragedy. He killed the dog instead of the coon, which little mishap enraged Skyles to such an extent, that he seized a club and knocked the slyer of his dog senseless to the ground. Walker, unfortunately, had a friend—friends too often are a great misfortune, especially the hot-headed, eliotic sort, and the borrowing kind—who chopped into the shoulder of Skyles with the axe with which the tree had been felled. Skyles also had an impetuous friend present, Daniel Crow, who, we presume, wishing to have a little hand in the tragedy, drew a revolver and severely wounded Jacob Milton, the man who made the assault with the axe. Strange to say, all parties were badly injured, but the coach dog who commenced the melee by springing on the coon, was the only savage killed. The report concludes that "the party (the coon included, we presume) were subsequently arrested."—N. Y. Field.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.—There are wide differences of opinion among those who ought to be able to pronounce an intelligent judgment in relation to the prospects of the dry goods market the coming season. Some sagacious buyers are laying in a good supply of domestics in anticipation of a rise in prices, while some very cautious dealers are holding back, under the belief that there must inevitably be a decline, on account of the chaotic condition of political affairs. In short, there are bulls and bears in dry goods as well as in railroads, gold and bonds. For our own part, we have no hesitation in giving our opinion that the bulls in dry goods this spring will have the best time of it; and this opinion is based on the evident tendency of the market at this early period of the season, upon the case in monetary affairs growing out of the passage of the non-contract bill, upon the advance in the price of cotton, upon the comparatively light stock in first hands, and the universally admitted bare condition of the country generally. These remarks apply to cotton goods mainly; in woolens the prospect of better prices is not by any means encouraging. The transactions in domestics during the past week have been large, but sales have been chiefly to houses for "stocking up;" the unusual severity of the weather has checked orders from the country to a considerable extent, but every day must bring new an accession of out-of-town purchasers.—New York Independent.

DEATH OF SIR DAVID BREWSTER.—The telegraph brings us intelligence of the death of Sir David Brewster, in London, at the age of eighty-seven years. He was born at Jedburgh, Scotland, in the year 1781. About the year 1808 his attention was first directed to optics, and he independently made several discoveries in regard to the polarization of light which were also made by Malus and Arago. From 1813 his contributions to the London and Edinburgh Philosophical Transactions contain the record of many of the most brilliant of modern discoveries in optics. He made many experiments on the absorption of light in passing through various media. These led to many singular results. Other sciences also claimed his attention and contributions—more particularly thermotics and meteorology. Our little as well as our large people will regret his loss the more sincerely upon learning that he was the inventor of the kaleidoscope. His fame was augmented as an author by a "Life of Sir Isaac Newton" and an "Elementary Treatise on Optics." He labored twenty-two years on the Edinburgh Encyclopedia, which was completed in 1830. He was also from 1824 the editor of the Edinburgh "Journal of Science." The world can ill afford to lose such a man even at his advanced age.—N. Y. Express.

VIRGINIA CONVENTION.—The Convention in a fit of economy yesterday, commenced a system of retrenchment. It was found that a number of committees had clerks "who were of no manner of use to the committees, Convention, State, or any other man." The heads of all committee clerks were, therefore, lopped off. The case of the stenographic reporter was then taken up. It appeared that this worthy had drawn from the treasury of the State the sum of four thousand three hundred and ninety-five dollars and sixty cents. Mr. Platte, of Petersburg, moved to disburse with his services. A long discussion ensued and many amendments were proposed. A calculation shows that this imported stenographer has received from the State of Virginia nearly ninety dollars per day for every day he has worked for the Convention. The Convention decided, by a vote of 54 to 23, to disburse with his services after the 15th of this month. A motion was also made to disburse with the services of the chaplain. This divine receives $20 per week for his services, which county usually about one minute per day—three dollars and thirty-three cents per minute, or at the rate of $200 per hour, or $2,400 per day of twelve hours.—Rich. Eng.

Miscellaneous Items.

Says the New York Times: The Speaker of the H. of R. decided the other day that Mr. Price, of Iowa, was out of order in referring to another member as "raising a howl." He had previously ruled that it was not in order to speak of another member as a "dog."

It appears that in Mississippi a trifling gift of sugar and tea by Gen. Gillem to the State Insane Asylum reveals the fact that such articles are almost unknown to the patients in that institution, and that it is only by the most rigid economy that the bare necessities of life can be furnished them.

The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent says: "The principal movers in impeachment are of the opinion that the last addition to the Johnson Grant correspondence does not help impeachment at all, but rather changes matters."

A letter from Beyrout, Syria, states that Gen. John C. Breckinridge was in that city on the 1st of January inst. The same letter adds that Mr. Jacob Thompson and other Southern men, were in Turkey.

REMARKS.—The market closes quiet, with a limited demand and light receipts. In Flour we have no change to notice, prices during the week having remained nominally unchanged, and the transactions having been confined entirely to the city trade. Choice brands of Family and Extra are firm, but low grades are weak. In Wheat the transactions have been very limited, and prices have not materially altered, there being some demand for choice white and red, but inferior parcels are inactive. We note sales to-day of some lots of fine white at 250, good red 220 and inferior 235. Corn has been in fair request, and prices pretty well sustained. Offerings to-day of 2500 bushels mixed, which sold at 105, 100 and 110, according to condition; 310 bushels white brought 110, and some small lots yellow 114. Rye is in fair request but light receipt, and the only sale reported to-day was of some inferior at 115; good may be quoted at 150. Oats in fair request, with sales at 72. Sales of Buckwheat at 125. Dressed Hogs and Poultry in very light receipt and prices are firm; Poultry much wanted. Butter and Eggs in demand. Seeds inactive.

BALTIMORE MARKET, February 13.—Flour.—The market has been moderately active, both for export and local wants. There is still a fair enquiry for medium shipping grades Extra, but the stock of this description is light, and but few of the orders at present. Medium grades are also scarce and held firm.

Grain.—Receipts of Wheat fair for the season, entirely by rail, and prices quite steadily maintained. Corn—Supplies moderate, and with fair demand for shipment, both foreign and coastwise, prices firmly maintained, at an advance for the week of 10c per bushel. Medium grades are in good request, and with light receipts prices are 20c better since the date of our last review. Rye steady.

BALTIMORE CATTLE MARKET, February 13. Beef Cattle.—Prices to-day ranged as follows: Old Cows and Stearwags at $4.50 to $5.00; ordinary thin Steers, Oxen and Cows $3.50 to $4.00; good Cattle $4.75 to $5.00; very best $5.50 to $6.00 per lb. The average price being about $4.75—no change from last week. The market was more active.

Sheep have been coming forward more freely during the past week, but are chiefly of an inferior quality. Prices ranged as follows: fair to good at $4.00, and good to extra 4.50 per lb. but few of the latter at present. Medium grades are also scarce and held firm.

Hogs.—The supply has been about equal to the demand during the past week, and prices steadily advanced, but to day there was less activity, and quotations a shade lower, ranging at one case from $11.50 to $13 per 100 lbs net for fair to good fat Hogs.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF VALUABLE LAND IN FAIRFAX COUNTY.—By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Fairfax county, rendered at its November term, 1867, of said Court, in the suit of Barnes' Administrator vs. J. R., and 11 miles from Fairfax Station, and on the same line as the same from Langley's. This farm is valuable, and offers great inducements to persons desiring to invest in real estate, being the most productive farm in that neighborhood.

TERMS OF SALE, as prescribed by the Court:—One-fourth of the purchase-money in hand, liable to be forfeited, and the land resold at the risk of the purchaser, should he fail to complete his purchase, upon confirmation by the Court; the residue in three equal payments at six, twelve and eighteen months, with interest from the day of sale, to be secured by the notes of the purchaser, and a retention of the title until the last payment is made.
